comprehensive company insights

Introducing Orbis: your gateway to global company data

Orbis is the leading resource for comparable data on 570+ million public and private companies worldwide, to conduct company research, analysis, and comparison to help you make better decisions and enhance efficiency. Orbis transforms the way you interact with company data, offering deep insights into the companies you currently do business with or are looking to engage with in the future.

Formerly a Bureau van Dijk (BvD) flagship solution, Orbis captures, treats, and standardizes data from an extensive range of sources, providing you with value-added company information.

Empower your decisions with Orbis

Why choose Orbis?

In an era of exponential risk, where data drives decisions, having access to comprehensive and reliable company information is crucial.

Orbis can help you navigate complexities with confidence. You can:

- Find, analyze, and compare companies worldwide with precision.
- Access a vast repository of information on companies in all countries, spanning public and private sectors, including specialized data on banks and insurance companies.
- Explore extensive corporate ownership structures and understand the relationships that shape the business world.
- Discover data on individuals associated with companies, providing insights into key decision-makers and influencers.
- Dive into unique datasets, offering a new dimension to your analysis.

Leveraging information from more than 170 providers worldwide, Orbis provides access to the most extensive and diverse range of data available, allowing for more informed comparisons and insights.

Moreover, Orbis enriches this data with appended risk metrics, providing a comprehensive snapshot of financial health and potential vulnerabilities. These metrics are a cornerstone for identifying and mitigating risks, so that your strategic decisions are both informed and foresighted.

What Orbis delivers: a suite of essential and advanced insights

Orbis grants you access to a rich tapestry of insights that meet your needs:
